But they were all heroes, and we owe them a debt of gratitude we can never sufficiently pay. They punished the enemy so awfully that 1 Dana to Stanton, Chattanooga, September 20th. if our forces had remained on the ground, it is the opinion of General Thomas, as well as of many others less judicious and reserved than he, that the enemy must have retreated. But Thomas was not sure that he could get mp supplies of ammunition in season, and retired accordingly. Our loss in this battle was about fourteen thousand killed, wounded, and missing, and forty pieces of artillery. But we repulsed the enemy even after one-half our line of battle was dissolved, and saved Chattanooga. The conduct of McCook and Crittenden in leaving their commands is to be investigated by a court of inquiry, and the order relieving them from command and consolidating the two corps (now together about fifteen thousand strong) into one under Granger is now on its way here from Washington. I should also tell you that General Rosecrans came to Chattanooga after the rout of the left, and consequently bore no part in the glory of the afternoon s battle. He seems in consequence to have lost some of his great popularity with the soldiers, whose idol is now very naturally the man who saved them, and indeed saved us all, Thomas. For my own part, I confess I share their...
