Excerpt: .you want to make a name for yourself in the service? I left the ground two feet below me in my fright and when I alighted there were tears of eagerness in my eyes. Yes, I replied breathlessly, oh, sir, yes. Then pick up that, he cried dramatically, pointing to a cigar butt on the parade ground. I didn t wait for the laughter. I didn t have to. It was forthcoming immediately. Huge peals of it. Sailors are a very low tribe of vertebrate. They seem to hang around most of the time waiting for something to laugh at- usually me. It is my belief that I have been the subject of more mirth since I came to camp than any other man on the station. Whatever I do I seem to do it too much or too little. There even seems to be...
