Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Life: Its Nature, Origin and Maintenance, an Address Delivered to the British Association for the Advancement of Science, at Its Meeting at Dundee in September, 1912 In the following Essay, which formed the Presidential Address to the British Association at its meeting this year in Dundee, I have tried to indicate in clear language the general trend of modern bio-chemical inquiries regarding the nature and origin of living material and the manner in which the life of multicellular organisms, especially that of the higher animals and man, is maintained. I have also stated the conclusions which it appears to me may legitimately be drawn from the result of those inquiries, without ignoring or minimising such difficulties as these conclusions present. There is, it may be admitted, nothing new in the idea that living matter must at some time or another have been formed from lifeless material, for in spite of the dictum omne vivum e vivo, there was certainly a period in the history of the earth when our planet could have supported no kind...
