Far Away and Long Ago: Young Historians in the Classroom (Paperback)

By Monica Edinger, Stephanie Fins

Stenhouse Publishers, United States, 1997. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 234 x 188 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. If you want to make your history teaching more meaningful to your students and more rewarding to yourself, welcome to Monica Edinger's classroom, where studying long ago events and far away places is a vital, exciting collaboration. Monica's fourth-grade students are historians. They consider events from their own lives, use oral history to explore other people's stories, investigate multiple perspectives, and examine documents and artifacts to interpret historical events. They experiment with ways of telling history: writing personal histories, creating picture books, producing research reports, and staging performances. Together Monica and her students grapple with the complexities of the past in order to make better sense of the present. Examining immigration from the perspective of a recent arrival from the Caribbean or from a Pilgrim hundreds of years ago makes history real and compelling to these young historians. As one classroom teacher's personal narrative on the development, teaching, and assessment of her curriculum, Far Away and Long Ago features: an overview of current issues regarding history in the elementary school; curriculum units ranging from the near to the far, from...
